

this project is focused on training a trio of transformers to work in tandem to identify market context, generate a probability distribution of target price levels, and then profit.

docker
